Even these premium racing games have IAP options, but we'll be sure to point them out for you. Without further ado, let's buckle up and burn rubber with the highest paid racing games on Android. Need for Speed Most Wanted Need for Speed Most Wanted continues one of the best AAA racing game franchises from consoles. Players cruise through a number of richly detailed stages, often trying to evade the police and at the same time trying to sideline competing cyclists. The mobile game has a strong connection to the console version, allowing users to rank on a common leaderboard. The controls are amazing, using tilt, intuitive operation and full Moga controller support. In-app purchases are available for in-game purchases, which can be used to upgrade your various cars, although you will also earn that money just by playing through the game. If you absolutely want to avoid in-app purchases and are willing to compromise in graphics, it's also the last game, Need for Speed: Shift. Need for Speed Most Wanted provides some of the best graphics you'll find for racing games on Android, striking a good balance between a goofy arcade feel and something more serious and competitive. Download Need for Speed Most Wanted ($4.99) Mini Motor Racing is fast, finger-friendly fun. Despite the art style and physics, there is a lot of challenge to be had here. Players work their way through different race modes in a top-down perspective, buying new cars and upgrading their existing ones. The 20-odd tracks are presented in varying weather conditions and times of the day, providing plenty of replay value even for the most famous circuits. It's a great Fruit Ninja tie-in with its own themed course and car, regular updates with new content, and local multiplayer over Wi-Fi. In-app purchases are available to track your car upgrades quickly, even if they're far from necessary. There's also a new extended championship you can buy into with money in the game, even if there are already 200 races in the core experience. For a light and fun racing game with lots of Polish, pick up Mini Motor Racing. Download Mini Motor Racing (99 cents) Slingshot Racing is a unique sledding racing game, with fluid, precise and surprisingly fun one-touch controls. Each corner has a tumble of the pitch that only spins continuously. As you approach, hold down your finger on the screen and your little racer harpoons to it so you can bounce around the corner gain momentum. You have to be sure to release your touch at the right time though, otherwise you'll just smash right into the inside wall and lose speed. This control scheme provides easy local multiplayer on the same device, and combined with different in-track elements that increase and danger, you'll find plenty of challenge here. There are over 80 races here to work with, each one unlocked by collecting enough bolts from completing previous tracks. Slingshot Racing has a $3.00 in-app purchase to unlock all the slots to play, and $0.99 for each of four purely cosmetic bobsleds. Slingshot Racing is a polished, unique racing game perfect for sharing with friends. Download Slingshot Racing (99 cents) Riptide 2 GP is a fantastic jetski racing game where players ride through all sorts of waterways: some man-made, some out in the wild. The career mode puts you through gradually more challenging races, rewarding you with cash and experience points. The money can be spent on getting new tours or upgrading the ones you have, and every time you level up, you can unlock killer new tricks to perform when launching ramps on a course. Riptide 2 GP is different from other cyclists in their delineated feel when jumping over the waves, not to mention getting splashback in the camera view. Vector Unit other racing titles, Beach Buggy Blitz and Shine Runner, have these fluid physics as well, but Riptide is very clearly built to show them to their fullest. Competitive online multiplayer is powered by Google Play Games. You can speed up your progress with in-app purchases, but as usual, they're optional. Riptide 2 GP is an outstanding pick if you've had your fill of putting around in cars. Download Riptide 2 GP ($1.99) Repulze is a neat twist on the futuristic, high-speed racing game. It remains differentiated with a polarizing mechanic, where players slalom between red and green energy ports, depending on which they have active. Get three in a row, and you earn a boost as well as change the polarity. Go through the wrong port, and the speed will be knocked down significantly. What's more, Repulze has dizzying twists, pressure, tilt or hardware controls and fully upgradeable vehicles. Each step has a handful of toolkits that can be used for on upgrades if you can snag them, even if there are in-app purchases to help you out if you need them too. Repulze is a buttery smooth, incredibly fast racing game with fresh take on a well-established genre. Source: Android Central We've rounded up the best racing games available in the Google Play store. With so many options to choose from, we've compiled a list that covers a whole range of subgenres – from stylized arcade races to ultra-realistic racing Sims – so whatever you prefer, you should find an outstanding game that's right for you. And if you want some great games in other genres, we have our list of favorite Android games in general as well. Ready? Let's hit the road! GRID Autosport console quality racing to Android without compromises when it comes to graphics or gameplay. The game offers some of the best rendered graphics and textures that I've seen from a mobile game. Physics engine is dynamic and you will see real-time damage to your vehicle as you swap paint with opponents in the corners. There are over 100 cars to drive and an equal number of tracks to race across a wide range of disciplines - from open wheels and touring circuits to street drag races and more arcade-style demolition races. GRID Autosport also allows you to choose how you want to run with scalable difficulties, making it a simpler and more arcade-style experience for random players or escalated difficulties for fans who yearn for a clean racing simulation. While the game offers great flexibility for touchscreen controls, you should take advantage of bluetooth controller support. It's simply better with a physical controller, and if you need to find one for mobile games, we've got you covered. It is unfortunate that there is a lack of support for NVIDIA Shield TV, since it should be perfectly suited for running a game like GRID, but there are breaks. GRID Autosport is a premium game, but well worth the money if you are looking for the best racing action on Android. GRID Autosport is a full-fledged racing game for Android that has a large list of cars to choose from and lots of tracks and circuits to burn rubber down. Choose from more traditional racing modes, hit the streets in drag or drift races, or smash them up in a demolition derby. Nintendo making the Mario Kart Tour free to play is as much a blessing as it is a curse - it means millions of people can jump in and play without having to pay a penny, but it also means that the game is carefully designed to entice you to subscribe to a monthly Gold Pass and use on in-app currency to unlock more characters and rewards at a faster pace. The gameplay itself is as hectic and chaotic as you'd expect from a Mario Kart game, and it's easily the funniest thing I've had with a mobile racing game in a while. In most aspects, this looks and feels like a real Mario Kart experience complete with item boxes and coins scattered across each course, fun shortcuts to discover, and the familiar thrill of victory and the more famous sting of defeat. However, this is despite the oversimplified controls, invisible bumper rails that prevent you from going off course, and other bizarre limitations imposed by Nintendo. In many ways, the only new aspect of the Mario Kart Tour is that it is available to play on smartphones. There are smaller courses and characters available, and to lock them all would probably require spending money than it would take to just buy the latest Mario Kart game for nintendo switch. But again, you don't have to spend money to enjoy the Mario Kart Tour - until you start to be matched up against those players who have used the gobs of it to upgrade their drivers and karts, of course. Kart Tour allows you to play some of your favorite race tracks, along with several new, straight from your phone. There are plenty of characters, maps and items to unlock. Compete against others from all over the world to see how well you match up! Asphalt 9: Legends is the latest entry in one of the most popular racing titles available in the Google Play Store. It skips all the pretensions of realism and provides an over-the-top, high-octane experience with all the parties. Players can work (or pay) their way through career mode to unlock new trips or upgrade the ones they have. You can compete against online opponents in eight-car races that are wild and fast. The controls by default to TouchDrive, which allows you to focus on shifting lanes to hit specific jumps or routes, drive and use nitro while the game itself handles acceleration and steering. There are other control options available, including on-screen controls and tilt control, but honestly, you're best to play with TouchDrive on to start until you get a handle on the game. The incredibly polished graphics and outstanding soundtrack make Asphalt 9 an adrenaline ride you won't soon forget. Download Asphalt 9: Legends (Free w/ IAPs) Asphalt is one of the best racing franchises for mobile that has high-octane racing with over 50 of the world's best race cars. It's a full career mode to enjoy with wild arcade-style racing action. Riptide GP: Renegade is the latest and best in futuristic jet ski racing franchise on Android. Riptide GP: Renegade has returned to memories of games like Jet Moto or Wave Race 64, and has a history-driven career mode along with opportunities to run a fast race or fight online opponents. The graphics are top notch, with water and motion blur effects, giving the game a good sense of speed. It uses lash control to control your hydro beam, which is less than ideal, but Bluetooth game pads are also supported and make things smoother. Speaking of controls, an important part of the game is to pull off insane stunts, which are easy to do with quick swipes. There is a lot to unlock and upgrade when playing through career mode, and AI is top-notch, providing a real challenge compared to other racing games for Android. You need a pretty good phone to handle graphics and gameplay, and also play fantastic on NVIDIA Shield Android TV box. If you're looking for some tips before diving in, check out our Beginner's Guide for Riptide GP: Renegade. Who's ready to get a little wet? Riptide GP: Renegade is a stylish wave racer who is still one of the finest racing games on Android. This game stands out from other racing games with the way it mixes a high-speed car chase with the best elements from the endless runner genre. Immediately, you'll be drawn in by the great art style that uses procedurally generated maps to plot out the sidewalks and cities you have to pass through on your lawless trip. You must become a Driver to collect all bottle caps as you go, which are spent on unlocking your choice of 29 uniquely cool vehicle. To finish the mood is your anonymous sidekick, reminding you every time you pass a gas station and commenting on each near miss. Although endless runners are often casual games, touch controls require full attention with fast inputs used to drive your car through confined spaces. Each car you unlock has its own speeds and handling, but you can master each one when you unlock them and drive across the three terrains - deserts, snow and jungle - each with five cities to tour through. The free version you download from the Play Store includes ads you can see to extend your run - or you can pay a one-time in-app purchase to remove ads and get permanent in-game bonuses. This is an endless driving game where you are on the run across several counties. All you have to do is keep your car driven up and avoid crashing while driving the police - easier said than done! Horizon Chase is a fun retro-style racer with gameplay reminiscent of the classic 80s arcade racer Pole Position. With bright and colorful retro graphics and over 70 tracks spanning 32 cities, it's a lot of fun to be had here. You start each race from the back of a 20 car pack and have to weave your way past your opponents to take the crown. Keep winning to upgrade and unlock 16 available cars. You get to play San Francisco slots, but then have to pay to unlock the whole game. Given how beautiful and fun this game is, we bet you will. The soundtrack is just sheer amazing, and everything just makes me feel like a child again dropping into quarters or booting up my N64. Race through bright and colorful localities in Horizon Chase, a throwback racer that delivers fun arcade action with or without a controller in hand. Want to race, but just have a hand free? Thumb Drift is the perfect game for you! With charming graphics and a simple premise, your goal is to drift sideways through four increasingly challenging courses. With over 100 cars to buy via in-app purchases, or unlock randomly using coins collected on the track or via special tricks, there are hours of mindless fun to be had here. Thumb Drift is the casual, endless racer you've been waiting for. It's not exactly the most engaging or endearing racing game on this list, especially with where in the face IAPs are, but sometimes a little thoughtless fun is worth the installation. There's really not much else for Thumb Drift. Give it a chance if it sounds like something you'd like. With simple, one-thumb controls, Thumb Drift is an informally endless racing game that has over 100 cars to unlock and drive through six unique tracks. Real Racing 3 is a fantastic mobile racing game that is bound to keep hardcore gearheads entertained. real brands cars on real tracks - hence the name - has an interesting asynchronous multiplayer system where lap times are recorded from your friends and you compete against a bot running at that time. Of course, you can eject them and influence their trajectory time, and it's a one-player career worth playing through as well. Over time, players earn new cars and can upgrade various mechanical bits with their winnings, but make sure you take it easy on your car - you need to keep your ride in good condition to avoid repair costs. This is an EA game, you can expect the usual slew of microtransactions offered, including three different in-game currencies that achieve different things. It's a typical EA move and lashes out an otherwise fun racing game for me personally. Real Racing 3 is gorgeous and the white-knuckled racing action will keep you coming back for more. CSR Racing is a clean-cut drag racing game. Players don't have to worry about steering - all you have to do is perfect time the equipment changes. Indicators tell when to make your next shift, and provided the timing is up to snuff and the ride is abundantly upgraded, you should pull over the finish line before your opponent, and earn some wins. Premium currency can be used to buy high-end cars, while standard currency can be used to buy the others, as well as upgrade specific parts such as gearbox, engine, intake, and body. There are a couple of other racing games in this franchise, including CSR Racing 2 and CSR Classics, but the first is still the best in our books. CSR Racing boils down drag racing to pure twitch reflexes. With over 100 licensed cars that can all be upgraded and customized, how far will you do on the World Tour? Top Speed was a very popular racing game back in its time, but the sequel takes things up a notch. It comes standard with multiplayer, over 70 cars to unlock, many customization and racing options and much more. It's a racing game that wraps up a lot of what you'd expect, with the only drawback being the freemium model. You play like a disgraced cop who gets into drag racing with the mafia. Sounds pretty strange, but the story takes second place next to the high-octane racing action. You have lots of cars to choose from as you make a name for yourself and work to be the best driver in town. Top Speed 2 offers some good vehicular customization, but it's not without its flaws. There are plenty of in-app purchases that can be found here. You will be asked to spend money on refueling (endurance meter), loot boxes for auto parts and upgrades for your cars. It all feels pretty slimy, but the game itself is fun enough. The sequel to the popular Top Speed brings all the things you loved about the first game, only better. Drive over 70 cars, customize them, and prove yourself the best racer around. What if, instead of being a racer, you wanted to manage the cyclists? Motorsport Manager Mobile 3 does just that. You build your own racing team from scratch and compete in events to be the best. You control everything, from hiring drivers to upgrading your cars. Strategy is the name of the game here, with yourself working to have the most effective pitstop. You have to be prepared for everything, including weather changes and crashes. It's really quite robust play, forcing you to see the whole picture of what goes into a given race. With the ever-evolving challenge to meet your growing skills, Motorsport Manager Mobile 3 (what a mouthful) promises less high octane action than any of the other games on this list, instead offering an excellent experience that makes you happy to manage a racing team. Step out of the driver's seat and put on your manager's hat, it's time to build an entire racing team. Check all aspects, down to training and upgrades. Source: Google Play Store Grand Prix Story is another racing sim, but quite different in function and form from Motorsport Manager Mobile 3. This pixel art adventure is more fun and more fun - much less serious than MMM3. You're still responsible for a racing team rather than being an outstanding driver, but some of you might prefer it. If so, read on. Realism is not what is important here; it's about having fun with a great art style. Since you are a manager, it is up to you to recruit and train drivers, build sponsorship deals and ensure that your team wins as much as possible. Build new cars and parts to make sure you're successful. Grand Prix Story is a one-time purchase with no ads or microtransactions. It's just a healthy, quirky and fun experience that puts you in the chair. Another racing sim, Grand Prix Story takes a more whimsical and less realistic approach. Enjoy the cute art style while managing a team to the ultimate victory! Another incredibly enjoyable game that is 100% free with no-nonsense. Data Wing is a racing adventure through pure neon style. The visual styling is strikingly secure, and I love every minute I've spent with Data Wing. The touch controls are completely on point and incredibly sharp, the levels look amazing and it has a good skill cap. There's a funny story behind the Data Wing, a bit like the original Tron in some ways. You'll probably finish it pretty quickly, but it's really fun to go back and do it all over again. There is high replay value here. The soundtrack is pretty good too. I love everything about Data Wing, and it lacks the disadvantages and caveats I usually have to note. This is free without ads or IAPs to be had. Another excellent freebie, Data Wing is a gorgeous racing adventure that takes obvious cues from tron renaissance. It's a brilliant little game and worth playing. Beach Buggy Racing 2 is a bit like classic Mario Kart or Diddy Kong Racing (who remembers it??). It's a cart racer with power-ups and intense competition through crazy surroundings as you race to the top. But there is a little more content here to enjoy and work towards than the classic style of play. Not only can pick up cars and - and there's a lot there, for sure - but you can smooth out power-ups, from which there's a lot to choose from. There are many game modes, including an online competitive multiplayer, and then you will have more than enough to do. Beach Buggy Racing 2 is a fun racing experience and very evocative of the classics I mentioned above. Although it is free to play, it is not super invasive with its earnings, and since the game is so fun, I do not feel bad about supporting the developer. You really just pay to speed up the progress of the game. Beach Buggy Racing 2 brings you back to the good old days of console cart racing games. It's cute, it's fun, and it's just a great time around. It's hard to believe I hadn't heard of Nitro Nation Drag & Shift before, especially given its ridiculous name, because it's apparently very popular. So I decided to give it a chance and knew almost immediately that it had to be here in this list and this comes from someone who usually doesn't like racing games. Because, despite some in-app purchases, Nitro Nation, as it will be hereinafter called, strays away from the usual freemium pitfalls we see with these types of games (some of which are in this list, go figure). It's just an honest to goodness racing game full of drag racing goodness, with IAPs for high-profile cars and in-game currency. There is an absolute ton to do in nitro nation, many cars to aspire to, tuning, cosmetics to unlock, and just a bunch. It's almost overwhelming. And without the usual nonsense of energy systems, waiting times for upgrades, or anything like that, you can focus on enjoying the experience the game has to offer. I think you'll like this one. Despite an embarrassingly long name, Nitro Nation Drag & Shift is just a good drag racing game with lots to do, lots of cars and cosmetics to unlock, and some great gameplay to enjoy. Enjoy.
